1	Overall, the class went well. However, sometimes it was confusing when submissions were due and other items just due to the online nature of the class. But, I guess that is something we are all going to have to get used to given what is going on in the world.
2	None
3	No significant difficulties come to mind. One thing I would say is getting the group discussions was slightly difficult at times because we all had very different schedules throughout the week.
4	Finding the readings from the blog posts was quite challenging as the links were problematic, then my computer thought they were viruses and would not open them. Eventually i did get the open and id the readings.

1	This course provided basic concepts to international relations, as well as discussing some the current events. The content helped me to understand international relations in a more professional perspective, and the basic concepts helped with reading IR articles.
2	This course was organized incredibly well for online. There was ample material and options to watch videos/listen to podcasts instead of reading. Because of this, working as an online student was incredibly interesting and allowed for broad learning.
3	Personally, I believe face-to-face interaction is preferable, but that is not possible. I still learned a lot in these five weeks, and I enjoyed the blend of theory with tangible history and current events. The advantage of being online was that we had the opportunity to speak with many IR scholars, which I think helped me contextualize our readings with broader debates in the field.
4	It was a great class
5	I really enjoyed taking this class. Despite the unfortunate circumstances preventing us students from taking the course on campus, I still made the most out of the class and have learned so much. I definitely do not regret taking this class.
6	I really enjoyed my teacher and this IR course gave me a very thorough understanding of the climate in International Politics. Additionally, I feel as if I learned a lot about the history and paradigms of IR.
7	I enjoyed this course a lot and found it extremely enjoyable. it certainly sparked my interest in wanting to pursue this type of work further.
8	Although under this unusual circumstance, I had sufficient opportunities to meet with my instructor when needed, the course is well organized through the recorded lectures, guest talks, and office hours to meet with the instructor. This is a great course on intro to international relations and I learned many more materials than I expected prior to the course which I think is awesome! I would strongly recommend this course to people who want an intro to IR.

1	This professor was one of my favorites so far at Georgetown, really knew his stuff
2	Professor Szarejko provided opportunities for student interactions using the discussion board and is willing to help us when needed (meetings outside of office hours and through email). I am very grateful that I was still able to talk to the instructor "in person" during the asynchronous course. We also had many synchronous guest talks which I really appreciate. Professor Szarejko encourages us to come up with our own understanding of International Relations which I think I did get a lot out from his recorded lectures and discussion post questions.
3	Professor Szarejko was an incredible professor who worked diligently to ensure students were learning throughout the online environment. He gave us opportunities to expand knowledge beyond the course and set us up with a wide berth of knowledge for future courses.
4	Overall, my teacher was very helpful, willing to talk, and open to any new ideas/feedback
5	Mr. Szarejko did an excellent job teaching this class and being there for all of the students. The recorded lectures were engaging and interesting thanks to him. He always emailed back super quick and was very understanding and helpful. He also did a great job of providing good/constructive feedback. The announcements were always very clear as well, so there was never any confusion. I was very happy with Mr. Szarejko and super impressed as to how he handled teaching this class.
6	He was very engaged and knowledgeable in the subject at hand and was always available to meet if I had any questions. He taught a great course!
7	Great class and great professor. I would recommend him and his class to someone looking to take IR!
8	Andrew was really helpful during the course. Apart from the recorded lessons, he also invited guest speakers to give us a chance to hear from the professionals. For those of us who were unable to attend the synchronous guest talks, he recorded for us to go back and listen.
